

Evaluation Policy

On Step Marking

For each class test, I will try to provide the general and specific grading rules I have adopted for evaluating the various steps that you might (or might not) have written in each part of the test question. These rules will be based on already assigned weight-age in the question paper (if any) and a subjective preliminary gleaning of your individual answer scripts. They will be designed on the following objectives:

- being a utilitarian examiner so that as many students score as much as possible, and,
- being a deontic examiner so that circuitous and wrong logic is not awarded. Common errors are mentioned along with these rules.

Grievance Rederessal

Students who have grievances in their evaluation may approach for redressal subject to the following:

- Only grievances related to mapping of the proposed evaluation structure to your individual answer script will be entertained. No grievances pertaining comparison of grading of two or more answer scripts will be entertained.
- All grievances must be e-mailed to karan24r@isid.ac.in and must be accompanied by a written / type (preferred) note pointing out the contested part of evaluation.
- No grievances will be entertained after 3 working days of the viewing of graded answer scripts . This deadline will be extended to 5 working days for day-scholars when graded answer scripts are distributed outside of tutorial session timings.
